Firefighters. Respond

► Firefighters rush to extinguish a fire that erupted at a detached residential garage on Lavergne Street in Vanier Sunday afternoon.

Garage fire causes about $30K in damage

More than 24 firefighters and seven fire trucks responded to a fire that engulfed a garage at 119 Lavergne St. Sunday at around 2:00 p.m. Firefighters quickly doused the fire at 2:32 p.m. Ottawa Fire Services said there were no injuries during the incident. Damage is estimated at $20,000 for the building and $10,000 for its contents. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Mom charged in death of daughter, 7

A Kingsmere, Que., woman was charged with the murder of her seven-year-old daughter last night after the girl's lifeless body was found Saturday, according to Quebec provincial police.

Katherine Dufresne, 53, is charged with murder in the death of her adopted daughter, Sophie Fitzpatrick. Police said Dufresne was also injured and likely tried to commit suicide.

"It would appear so, but those elements will be given to court in the next few days," said police spokesperson Sgt. Louis-Philippe Ruel.

Officers with the MRC de Collines were called to the home at 80 Chemin Barnes at around 1:30 p.m. Saturday. The girl's father,

“She was well-raised and loved. It’s just unbelievable.”

NEIGHBOUR IIM DEWAR

Murray Fitzpatrick, was not involved, said police.

The charge came after a detective was able to interview Dufresne in hospital yesterday, Ruel said.

"If that's true, obviously she had a breakdown, because she loved her child," said neighbour Jim Dewar.

Dewar said the Fitzpatricks adopted Sophie from China five years ago.

Jim Dewar's son Warren, 25, said Sophie always looked happy and was often seen dancing along their street as she walked with her parents.

"I hope she rests in peace," Warren said.

► Gloria Constantini touches the name of her father, Giuseppe Constantini, on a new Memorial Wall unveiled yesterday in Little Italy's Piazza Dante.

Memorial to a painful time

► New monument on Booth Street lists names of Italian-Canadians interned or killed in the line of duty in the Second World War ► Canada considered Italy an enemy state in 1940

JOE LOFARO
@METRONEWS.CA

Memories of the Second World War came flooding back to Gloria Constantini yesterday morning after seeing her father's name engraved on a new memorial wall in Little Italy's revitalized Piazza Dante.

The names of five Italian-Canadian men who were interned after Canada declared Italy an enemy state in 1940 were engraved into the granite wall, which faces St. Anthony's Church on Booth Street.

The RCMP arrested Constantini's father, Giuseppe, June 10, 1940, for suspected ties to Italian dictator, Benito Mussolini.

They searched her family's home on Rochester Street and she panicked. She said her father wasn't a fascist, but her family believed in the changes Mussolini wanted to make in Italy.

Gloria knew that wouldn't matter to the RCMP officers, who began confiscating their belongings. A statue of Mussolini sat in their living room.

"I picked it up, put it under my shirt, and ran out of the house," said Gloria, who was nine at the time. "Two officers chased me down the alleyway, caught me and brought me back to the house with the statue."

Considered an enemy alien by the Canadian government, her father spent eight months in a Petawawa internment camp. He was released Feb. 7, 1941, without being charged. None of the Italian-Canadians in Ottawa who were interned were ever charged.

At age 83, Gloria finally has a memento of her father's perseverance, and it also serves as a history lesson for other Canadians.

"I think it's great that they're doing something to let people know what went on in those days," she said.

The Italian Canadian Community Centre of the National Capital Region only got the permit to set up the memorial on Thursday and worked around the clock to have it erected after yesterday's mass.

Italo Tiezzi was seven when his father, Gino, was arrested, also on June 10, 1940.

"I find it difficult to revisit this sad event," said Italo. "But as a former teacher of history, I see the importance of remembering it, especially for young Canadians."

Public Notice Regarding the Ministry of Health and Long-Term Care's ("ministry") Collection, Use and Disclosure of Information under the Narcotics Safety and Awareness Act, 2010

The Narcotics Safety and Awareness Act, 2010 ("Act") authorizes the Minister of Health and Long-Term Care ("Minister") and the Executive Officer of Ontario Public Drug Programs ("Executive Officer") to collect, use and disclose information, including personal information, that relates to the prescribing and dispensing of narcotics and controlled substances ("monitored drugs") in Ontario, for the purposes of the Act. The purposes of the Act are to

- promote appropriate prescribing and dispensing practices for monitored drugs
- identify and reduce the abuse, misuse and diversion of monitored drugs, and
- reduce the risk of addiction and death resulting from the abuse or misuse of monitored drugs

Section 8 of the Act permits the Minister and the Executive Officer to direct a prescriber (e.g., doctor, dentist), a dispenser (e.g., pharmacist) or an operator of a pharmacy to disclose information about the monitored drugs they prescribe or dispense, to the Minister or the Executive Officer. For example, the Minister and the Executive Officer may direct the disclosure of information regarding

- the prescriber of the monitored drug (name, address, registration number)
- the person for whom the monitored drug is prescribed (name, address, date of birth, gender, unique number appearing on a form of identification listed on the ministry's website)
- the monitored drug itself (name, strength, quantity, length of therapy, directions for use, drug identification number, prescription number, date of prescription, date of dispensing)

In addition, if a person who has been prescribed a monitored drug authorizes someone else to pick up the drug from a dispenser, the Minister or the Executive Officer may direct a dispenser to disclose certain personal information about that person to the Minister or the Executive Officer (i.e., the person's name and address, and the distinguishing number appearing on a form of identification that verifies the person's name and address).

Once this information has been collected, the Minister and Executive Officer may only use or disclose it as permitted or required by the Act, the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act, and the Personal Health Information Protection Act, 2004. For example, subsection 5.(5) of the Act permits the Minister and the Executive Officer to disclose personal information about a person who has been prescribed a monitored drug, to a prescriber, a dispenser or an operator of a pharmacy who has prescribed or dispensed such a drug to the person in the past.

The Ministry's statement of information practices, available at www.ontario.ca/privacy, describes how and for what purposes the Ministry may use and disclose personal health information in accordance with the Personal Health Information Protection Act, 2004.

Panic grips Turkey after powerful quake

► More than 130 people killed and 350 injured, Turkish PM says ► Death toll could reach 1,000 due to flimsy housing and size of quake: Officials

► Residents of the city of Van help dig survivors out from the rubble after a 7.2-magnitude earthquake in eastern Turkey yesterday. "There are many people under the rubble," said Veysel Keser, the mayor of the district of nearby Celebibag. "People are in agony. We can hear their screams for help."

Cries of fear and horror filled the air as a 7.2-magnitude earthquake struck eastern Turkey, killing at least 138 people as buildings pancaked and crumpled into rubble. The death toll was expected to rise as rescuers sifted through the rubble and reached outlying villages.

Tens of thousands fled into the streets screaming and trying to reach relatives on cellphones. As the full extent of the damage became clear, survivors dug in with shovels and even their bare hands, trying to rescue the trapped and the injured.

"My wife and child are inside! My four-month-old baby is inside!" CNN-Turk television showed one young man sobbing outside a collapsed building in the city of Van.

Ten buildings collapsed in Van and as many as 80 collapsed in Erzurum, about 90 kilometres to the north, the Turkish Red Crescent said.

Residents in Van and Erzurum lit campfires, preparing to spend the night outdoors while the Red Crescent began setting up tents in a stadium.

Rescue efforts went deep into the night under generator-powered floodlights. Workers tied steel rods around large concrete slabs

Deadly ground

- The hardest-hit area was Erzurum, a city of 75,000 close to the Iranian border, which lies on one of Turkey's most earthquake-prone zones.
- Van, about 90 kilometres to the south, also sustained heavy damage. Highways caved in and the airport was damaged, forcing flights to be diverted.

in Van, then lifted them with heavy machinery.

Residents sobbed outside the ruins of one flattened eight-storey building, hoping that missing relatives would be found. Witnesses said eight people were pulled from the rubble, but frequent aftershocks hampered search efforts. By late evening, some joy emerged as a ninth, a teenage girl, was pulled out alive.

About 1,275 rescue teams from 38 provinces were being sent to the region, officials said, and troops were also assisting search-and-rescue efforts.

METRO WORLD NEWS IN BOGOTÁ

One of the most prominent fighters in the war on drugs is calling for the world to get tougher. President of Colombia Juan Manuel Santos wants world leaders to take a much stronger, more co-ordinated approach in dealing with trafficking narcotics and the use of hard drugs such as cocaine and heroin. In an exclusive one-on-one interview with Metro, Santos says legalizing softer drugs, such as cannabis, could be a way forward, if done globally.

"The world needs to discuss new approaches," Santos says. "We are basically still thinking within the same framework as we have done for the last 40 years."

Colombia's war on drug cartels has made huge progress over the past 20 years. The killing of notorious drug baron Pablo Escobar in 1993 and then the arrest and conviction in 2006 of the Rodríguez Orejuela brothers, founders of the Cali Cartel, did much to dismantle the powerful cartels — and spark the decline of drug-related violence that had plagued the country. Santos hopes that the world, too, can build on this success story.

Do you think legalizing softer drugs could be a way forward?

Yes, that could be an answer, provided everyone does it at the same time.

But somebody has to take the first steps?

Yes, and it won't be me.

Why?

Because, for Colombia, this is a matter of national security. Drug trafficking is what finances the violence and the irregular groups in our country. I would be crucified if I took the first step.

How is this different in other countries?

In other countries (Europe and the U.S.), this is mainly a health issue and a crime issue. We need to look at all components, one of them being targeting the assets in this business. But we need to do so on a global level.

What do you think we're doing wrong?

We must discuss a new approach, looking at all the components: The profit and the crime that follows drug-trafficking, the fight against money laundering, trade with arms and so on.

'On a great path'

Santos on why they are smiling in Latin America:

► "We have something that the U.S. and Europe don't have: A young population and a lot of optimism.... The latest poll in Colombia from Thursday (last week) shows that 79 per cent of our population believes that we are on a great path."

PROPOSAL

Minister challenges EU criticism of oilsands

Canada's natural resources minister is taking the European Union to task over its proposal to discriminate against crude from the Alberta oilsands.

Joe Oliver has written to union energy commissioner Gunther Oettinger to complain about a plan to differentiate oilsands products from other sources of heavy crude.

The proposal stems from complaints that the oilsands have a greater greenhouse gas footprint than conventional production. Oliver says Canada is open about greenhouse gas production, while other countries hide or fudge their data.

He says discriminating against Canadian heavy crude could violate the European Union's international trade obligations.

Jobs accuses Google of theft from iPhone

► Could Steve Jobs' biography damage the search leader's reputation and the prospects of its Android software?

Google can only hope that Steve Jobs' final vendetta doesn't haunt the Internet search leader from his grave.

The depths of Jobs' antipathy toward Google leaps out of Walter Isaacson's authorized biography of Apple's co-founder. The book goes on sale today, less than three weeks after Jobs' long battle with pancreatic cancer culminated in his Oct. 5 death.

The biography drips with Jobs' vitriol as he discusses his belief that Google stole from Apple's iPhone to build many of the features in Google's Android software for rival phones.

The perceived theft represented an unforgivable act of betrayal to Jobs, who had been a mentor to Google co-founders Larry Page and Sergey Brin and had welcomed Google's CEO at the time, Eric Schmidt, to be on Apple's board.

Jobs retaliated with a profane manifesto during a 2010 conversation with his chosen biographer.

"I'm going to destroy Android because it's a stolen product. I'm willing to go to thermonuclear war on this. They are scared to death because they know they are guilty," Jobs told Isaacson.

It suggests that Apple may try to derail Android in court, even if Google obtains more patent protection through its proposed $12.5-billion acquisition of Motorola Mobility Inc.

It's also possible that Jobs' criticisms may be seen as hypocritical. The Mac's easy-to-use interface and its mouse controller, for instance, came out of Xerox Corp. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Technology gap for air force planes

Canada's new multibillion-dollar stealth fighters are expected to arrive without the built-in capacity to communicate from the country's most northerly regions — a gap the air force is trying to close.

Briefings given last year expressed concern that the F-35's radio and satellite communications gear may not be as capable as that of the current CF-18s.

Military aircraft operating in the high Arctic rely almost exclusively on satellite communications. The F-35 Lightning will eventually be able to communicate with satellites, but the software will not be available in the initial production run, said a senior Lockheed Martin official. It is expected to be added during fourth-phase production in 2019, but that is not guaranteed because research is still underway. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Decision on Greek debt delayed

Greece's prime minister is pleading with European leaders in Brussels to act decisively to solve the continent's debt crisis. GEESE: 1, CITY BOY: 0

URBAN COMPASS

STEVE COLLINS
METRO OTTAWA

"And will the geese have guns, too?"

That was my friend Theresa, genially disgusted to hear I was going hunting. I am, after all, a city dweller. My food comes from Farm Boy. I have the civilized luxury of not having to look my prospective dinner in the eye. What kind of caveman deviance was this?

Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg crept a lot of people out by resolving that this year he'd eat only meat he'd personally killed, like an unfortunate goat and pig whose throats he slit.

But there was a point, he insisted, to the grisly exercise: "I think many people forget that a living being has to die for you to eat meat, so my goal revolves around not letting myself forget that and being thankful for what I have," he wrote to Fortune magazine.

Zuckerberg added he's not only been eating healthier food as a result, but learning about sustainable farming.

I had no such lofty philosophical goals. First of all, goose doesn't figure prominently in my diet. Neither did the partridge I used to hunt growing up in the Ottawa Valley. Nor was this some survivalist exercise, proving my prowess at feeding myself in case of another catastrophic BlackBerry outage.

For me, it was more about getting outdoors with my stepdad on a stunning fall day and not talking for hours, so as not to alert our prey. A perfect guy outing, in other words.

In a farmer's field, we set out decoys, two-dimensional plywood cutouts of geese, in hopes of luring the genuine articles down for a closer look. I noted uncomfortably how our tactics resembled those of Wile E. Coyote.

We hid and waited.

A wild turkey nonchalantly emerged nearby, and I was instantly lost in a mental thicket of regulations from two levels of government. Did he know his rights? Indeed he did. He was off limits to us.

My attitude toward actually killing an animal is complicated, but as it happened, the matter never came up. Not a single goose landed in that field. We shot once at a small, low-flying squadron, and may have startled them, but not badly. The geese owned us again and again as our brilliant decoy ruse failed utterly.

With my inadvertently cruelty-free hunting adventure complete, I'm reminded why city boys live in cities, and pretty thankful that those cunning birds weren't packing heat after all.

Worth Mentioning

One of Henrik Holgersson's friends laughed in his face when he told him he was going to spend the better part of 2011 as a stay-at-home dad.

"What kind of a man are you?" the friend asked Holgersson, who works for an event-management company.

Holgersson took out 240 days of parental leave paid for by the government while his girlfriend, Jenny Karlsson, went back to her job as a real estate agent, after eight months at home with their son Arvid.

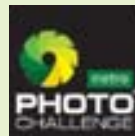

"To take care of Arvid is a real fatherly thing to do. I think that's very masculine," said Holgersson, 34.

Holgersson's experience isn't unusual in Sweden, largely because the government encourages dads to stay at home with their newborn through a parental-leave policy that is among the most generous in the world.

While more than a dozen countries now offer paid paternity leave, usually for a couple of weeks, Sweden subsidizes such leave for up to 14 months.

Identical twins give birth on same day

Two identical twins in Indiana now have another birthday in common: They delivered babies on the same day at the same hospital.

The Herald-Times reports 21-year-old Jessica and Jennifer Patterson gave birth Wednesday at Indiana University Health Bloomington Hospital.

Jennifer Patterson gave birth first to a girl, Adalynn Rose Patterson, who was born with a collapsed lung but is now doing fine.

Eight and half hours later, Jessica Patterson gave birth to a boy, Mason Douglas Patterson, by Cesarean section.

Jennifer Patterson calls the same-day births "kind of cool."

Both women live in the tiny Lawrence County town of Judah.

Hospital spokeswoman Amanda Roach says no one can recall the last time identical twins delivered babies at the hospital on the same day.

Osbourne's alright

► New documentary put together by Ozzy's son Jack details rocker's journey to sobriety

Jack Osbourne says he doesn't worry anymore about the well-being of his dad, heavy metal megastar Ozzy Osbourne.

"Motorbikes can't kill him, drugs can't kill him," he mused in a recent phone interview from his parents' California house. "He's one of these guys where he's going to be, like, 900 years old still complaining about everything and laughing. We joke that he's going to outlive me."

The British rocker's astounding ability to endure decades of hard partying, reckless stunts and heavy drug and alcohol abuse is one of the main themes of God Bless Ozzy Osbourne, which will screen at participating Cineplex Entertainment theatres in Canada on Wednesday at 7 p.m. ET. "There's only a handful of people that have done what he's done and lived to tell the tale," said Osbourne, 25, who produced the documentary.

The film opens with shots of a 60-year-old, long-haired Osbourne — clad in all black and purple-tinted glasses — in his dressing room jumping rope, riding a stationary bike and doing stretches as part of his pre-concert warm-up routine. As we soon learn, the so-called Prince of Darkness is now more than five years sober — the longest stretch he's spent in recovery.

Gone are the days when he was so high or intoxicated

► In God Bless Ozzy Osbourne, his children admit he wasn't always the greatest father.

ed he'd bite the heads off winged creatures, trash hotel rooms or have legions of TV viewers laughing at his incomprehensible speech and hunchbacked-shuffle walk on The Osbournes.

"One of the key points that I wanted to put across for this film is that he's not this fumbling kind of stuttering, quirky guy," said Osbourne, who recently revealed he's expecting a child with his fiancée, Lisa Stelly. "He's really quite astute and he's switched on and he's far from absent-minded."

Osbourne, who's appeared on various TV series, said a colleague encouraged him to do the project about four years ago.

When his parents gave the OK, he bought cameras, found a co-producer and hired director Mike Fleiss, who is executive producer of The Bachelor.

The filmmakers also use archive footage to detail Osbourne's life, from his poverty-stricken childhood in Birmingham, England to his drug-addled days with Black Sabbath and his time on The Osbournes TV reality series, when his alcoholism was at its peak.

Sabbath members say they used to order "cereal boxes" of cocaine to the house and Osbourne — a long-haired prankster who wore heavy, black eye liner and fake fangs onstage — would drink and do drugs until he passed out. His alcoholism became worse when his dad died and Sabbath famously fired him.

Osbourne, of course, eventually bounced back with a new band managed by his wife, Sharon. But his addiction issues plagued him, and his children — Louis and Jessica from his first marriage; and Kelly, Jack and Aimee from his marriage to Sharon — admit in the doc that he wasn't always a great father.

After about a dozen times in rehab, Osbourne — as he explains in the film — finally got the motivation to get sober for good over five years ago, when son Jack recovered from his addiction issues.

"I struggled with it because I don't want to take credit for what my dad had done," said Osbourne. "He's the one who got sober — I just yelled at him — so I always feel awkward when people go, 'Oh, you helped.' I go, 'No, I didn't. I just had an argument and he kind of lifted himself from it.'"

One of Osbourne's biggest goals when he got sober was to get a driver's licence — something his addiction issues prevented him from doing until now.

"I actually sat outside on the porch looking at his Ferrari Italia, which is, I think, the most amusing thing to me about it," said Osbourne. "He has not driven me yet, which is really strange, probably because whenever I turn up he's like, 'You drive.'"

"Even though he's got his licence and he's really stoked about it, I don't think he likes driving."

God Bless Ozzy Osbourne premiered in the spring at the Tribeca Film Festival.

Michael Bublé has a new book out, one that's billed as an all-access portrait of the Canadian crooner, but he wants his fans to understand something.

Onstage Offstage, hitting stores tomorrow, is not the no-holds-barred memoir that fans might have expected from the refreshingly outspoken singer.

The book doesn't feature the sort of revealing behind-the-scenes anecdotes that Bublé would share over dinner with friends, nor does it probe past relationships like a bullet wound on C.S.I.

That book is coming, Bublé said, but the three-time Grammy winner felt he needed to accumulate more miles in his rear-view before he looked back.

Christmas love

- In his new book, Bublé writes at some length about the close relationship he has with his family.
- It's part of why he has such a child-like affection for Christmas, and that's what led him to record a new holiday disc.
- "My parents, they loved us a lot," he said. "And I think they got a real kick out of making Christmas special for us like most parents do. I think it's something I can't wait to have kids for, to be able to be the dorky-est Christmas dad."

- "I went in and we worked for five months on the record," Bublé says of his holiday CD, titled Christmas, which is due out today. Hit-making Canadian producer David Foster worked with Bublé on the record.

- "We worked our butts off on making great arrangements together," Bublé said.
- He calls Christmas "one of the most important records I've ever made."

He envisions that more in-depth book, which he's already working on with Vancouver journalist Kerry Gold, will come out a decade or more down the line, while Onstage Offstage is meant to serve a different purpose.

"The truth is, I want people to really understand, (Onstage Offstage) is very light," said the personable singer during a recent interview at a Toronto hotel. "I'm proud of it, it's great, but it's a picture book."

"When they sold the idea to me, I was completely against it — I felt it was too early in my career to have any kind of memoir. But they said it's not a memoir, it's a coffee-table book.

"... I just don't want people to get mixed up and think this was like, the memoir.

"Because really, they'll be disappointed if they think that. I hope it's nice reading, it's light reading, it's fun, it's quick, but, you know, there's a lot more pictures than there are words."

Reid says that while he respects show creator Cowell, he doesn't always agree with his talent assessments.

"I have very different taste than Simon. So I may have made very made different choices. But no names," he laughs.

Spielberg brings Tintin home

► Director Steven Spielberg wanted to release film in beloved character's native Belgium first Tintin came home to Belgium on Saturday for the world premiere of Steven Spielberg's The Adventures of Tintin: Secret of the Unicorn. The movie is rolling out first across Europe and elsewhere before hitting the United States by the Christmas movie season.

"To hijack Tintin and bring it to America first, and then release it overseas second, would be something that would not have even occurred to us," Spielberg said. "From the outset, the plan was to give Tintin back to the countries where Tintin was the most beloved."

The director has been riding a wave of support from local critics despite opening in a tradition-bound nation ready to pounce on any desecration of its cultural icon.

For Spielberg, a happy ending will mean the movie is such a box office success that a sequel becomes unavoidable. "We have chosen the next story. We have a screenplay that is being written right now," Spielberg said.

Crazy in love

► Anton Yelchin and Felicity Jones put their acting chops to the test in Like Crazy, an improvised story of two lovers forcibly separated

ANNE BRODIE
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Anton Yelchin and Felicity Jones star in Drake Doremus' Like Crazy, the largely improvised story of lovers Anna and Jacob forcibly separated when Anna is sent home to London after overstaying her student visa in L.A. Their attempts to reunite take time, money and patience, and patience is something neither has. Yelchin says his character may have over invested himself in a difficult, upsetting love affair due to loneliness.

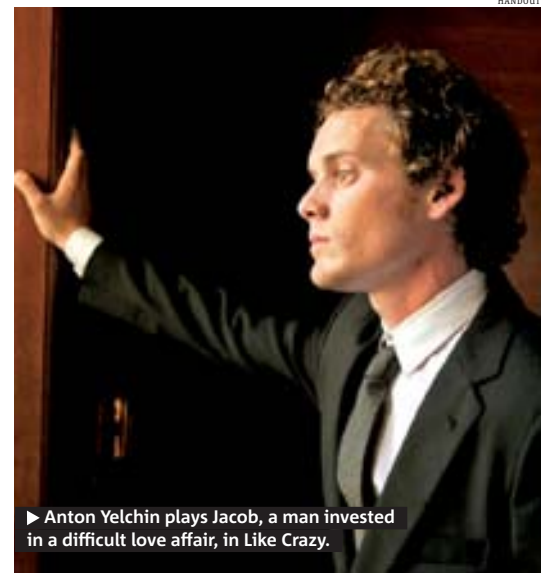

"He has a mother that doesn't give a s— about him," he says.

"He doesn't have a father so he's very alone and to himself and everything that is exciting about him on the inside comes out in his desire to create something. She is completely distant and not connected to him. The father passed away and so he doesn't have anyone he goes to, there's no one."

Doremus' goal was to shoot 30 minute improvised chapters, and the stars didn't know each other so being thrown into an intensely intimate situation was tough, says Jones. "It was quite petrifying, especially considering what we were about to embark on. I met him and thought this is going to be difficult if he's not that cool.

"But luckily he was extraordinary and we became great friends."

Jones learned to rely on her imagination in her first improvisational role. "You can't help but bring something of yourself to the role, your own instincts. We were keen for there to be some separation of who we are and the characters. Anna is a lot more impulsive than I am and I liked that about her. She makes decisions without really thinking them through, which is how they get her into trouble. There were many things I wanted to examine and think about.

"It was frightening, but it was a good thing."

THIS WEEKEND IN

THE WORD

SCENE@METRONWS.CA

This hurts us more than it hurts you, but as a gossip column, we are obligated to dedicate this space to Lindsay Lohan and her adventures in community service over the weekend. (Don't like it? Get us a pic of Bradley Cooper and Jennifer Lopez together, and maybe we can talk.)

Here's the good news: Not only did Lindsay show up at the morgue, but she was sociable and cleaned floors on her hands and knees, reports TMZ. And although the L.A. County Coroner rejected her peace offering (and/or bribe) of cupcakes and burgers, we thought the delivery was a nice gesture. Now, for the bad news: Dina Lohan is reportedly shopping around a tell-all book about her daughter's struggles with addiction, and father Michael Lohan gladly took the opportunity to complain about them both in a lengthy, unhinged rant to RadarOnline in which he compared himself to an archangel. In other words? This chick is going to be headlining every gossip column for the next 20 years, and we collectively owe her apology cupcakes.

▶ Bradley has been calling Jennifer, like, a lot ▶ Recently single singer is apparently liking the attention

Bradley Cooper has reportedly been going to great lengths to woo Jennifer Lopez now that she's split from husband Marc Anthony, according to Us Weekly.

Cooper "has been after Jennifer, calling her, for ages," a source says, adding that Lopez "has been trying to concentrate on her kids and work. But Bradley has been especially eager."

It's apparently working, as Lopez has decided to "let him in," the source says. "She likes the thrill and the fact that Bradley has been pursuing her."

A new study

TORSTAR

A new study by Dr. De-Kun Li of Kaiser Permanente in California, suggests high blood pressure during early pregnancy is what raises the risk of major birth defects — not the medicines used to control the condition, as previously thought.

For years, women were warned to avoid drugs called ACE inhibitors during later stages of pregnancy to avoid the possibility of birth defects.

► "After a year, babies will only need help with foods like yogurt," says Dr. Rana Conway, author of Weaning Made Easy.

The great spoon-fed vs. baby-led weaning debate

► Once you master milk-feeding your infant, it's time to think about solids ► Parents often choose between spoon-fed and 'baby-led' weaning methods ► Consider this: combine both

EMMA E. FORREST
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS

With your first-born, it feels like every time you think you've mastered one baby-rearing challenge, you're set with the next. Just when you've stopped fretting about how much milk your growing infant is drinking, you're faced with anxieties about when to start feeding her solids, whether the meal is nutritious enough and if she's going to actually eat it.

There are two major approaches to weaning: the traditional spoon-fed method (where the parent is in control), and the modern 'baby-led' weaning (where the baby learns to feed him or herself).

"With first babies, moms often lack the confidence to combine the two methods," says Dr. Rana Conway, author of Wean- ing Made Easy.

There are advantages to both. Spoon-feeding allows parents to control how much their baby eats and mix new flavours in with favourites. Knowing that dinner is going to end up in your baby's belly rather than the floor is reassuring for parents whose sanity depends on regular nap, feed- and bed-times.

Meanwhile, baby-led weaning is convenient for parents who don't have time to prepare separate meals and there's no danger of overfeeding (although it can be messier than spoon-feeding).

"The advantage is that families can eat together and all have the same meals, so babies get used to eating the food you do," says Conway.

Combining methods is easy, says Conway. "The balance between spoon-feeding and self-feeding ... changes over time," she says. "Most babies need spoon-feeding to start, but it's also vital to give them something to try to eat with their fingers. This means they'll be getting nutrients they need, but they can also learn about real food," Conway says. "After a few months, self-feeding takes off and by a year most babies will only need help with foods like yogurt. It's about taking a balanced approach and seeing what works."

Shepherd's Pie goes sweet

► This version replaces regular potatoes with sweet potatoes for a new take ► The recipe allows you to make two dinners by freezing one pan

THE CANADIAN PRESS/HO

► This recipe serves eight.

DINNER EXPRESS

EMILY RICHARDS
FOOD@METRONEWS.CA

This twist on classic Shepherd's Pie offers a colourful and tasty mealtime solution for eight to 10 hungry people. Sweet potatoes and cheddar cheese are used in the topping instead of the traditional mashed potatoes.

You can also make two dinners for four and freeze the second pan for a last-minute meal to cook from frozen.

Preparation:

1 In a large pot, cook sweet potatoes in boiling water until fork-tender, 12 to 15 minutes. Drain and mash with cheddar cheese, milk, salt and pepper.

2 Filling: In a large frying pan, sauté beef over medium-high heat for 8 to 10 minutes or until no longer pink. Drain off fat. Add carrots, zucchini, corn, onion and garlic; cook for 5 minutes or until vegetables are softened.

3 In a small bowl, mix together thyme, oregano, mustard and flour; stir into pan along with milk, salt and pepper. Cook for 2 minutes or until slightly thickened.

Ingredients:

- 2 kg (4 lb) sweet potatoes, peeled and cubed
- 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) shredded old cheddar cheese
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) milk
- Salt and pepper, to taste

Filling

- 1 kg (2 lb) lean ground beef
- 500 ml (2 cups) each shredded carrots and zucchini
- 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) corn kernels
- 175 ml (3/4 cup) minced onion (about 1 onion)
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) each dried thyme, oregano and dry mustard
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) all-purpose flour
- 250 ml (1 cup) milk
- Pinch salt and pepper

Transfer to two 2 L (8-inch) square baking dishes; top each with half of the potato mixture. (Can be frozen at this point.)

4 Bake in a 190 C (375 F) oven for 20 minutes or until heated through and topping is browned. EMILY RICHARDS IS A PROFESSIONAL HOME ECONOMIST, COOKBOOK AUTHOR AND A TV CELEBRITY CHEF. FOR MORE, VISIT EMILYRICHARDSCOOKS.CA/ THE CANADIAN PRESS / FOODLAND ONTARIO

Smokin' good avocado cigars

This cigar-shaped crispy phyllo pastry filled with scrumptious morsels of avocado and crab is fitting for any occasion.

The cooling effect of the avocados and mango chutney offers a refreshing contrast to the spicy filling, creating a perfect autumn appetizer.

Preparation:

1 Preheat oven to 190 C (375 F). In a medium bowl, combine crab, red pepper, green onion, mustard, lemon and hot sauce. Dice avocados and gently fold into crab mixture. Season with salt and pepper.

2 Cut a store-bought phyllo sheet in half (vertically) and spray lightly with olive oil or brush with melted butter. Spread 15 ml (1 tbsp) of the filling at the end of the sheet. Roll pastry to form a cigar shape, tucking the ends in before the last roll. Repeat steps with remaining phyllo sheets.

3 Bake for 10 to 13 minutes until light golden brown. Let cool slightly before serving.

4 In bowl, combine chutney, cilantro and water. Serve as dipping sauce. THE CANADIAN PRESS/ AVOCADOS FROM MEXICO

Teen fiction pen mightier than ever

► Young adult fiction writers continue to sharpen their skills ► Landscape changed after Harry Potter and Twilight

Melissa Bourdon-King is brimming with enthusiasm as she describes the quality of young adult fiction in recent years, a veritable feast that is attracting more than just teen readers.

As general manager of a children's bookstore in Toronto, she and her colleagues — some of them in their 20s — often check out the offerings aimed at a younger demographic.

The Harry Potter and Twilight series were blockbusters, of course, and Bourdon-King indicated that The Hunger Games, a popular science fiction trilogy by Suzanne Collins, is a current juggernaut.

"In the wake of that there's been a lot of sort of dystopian novels coming out. If you ask, I could probably list about a dozen or so that claim to be the next Hunger Games," said

Bourdon-King, who will turn 25 next month.

"Publishers are really aware of the broad appeal that young adult fiction can have, not just to readers of 12 to 16, but to readers in their early 20s, to middle-aged moms, to retired people that just want a really great read."

"There's been a lot of just really stellar fiction that's been coming out, geared to young adults, but really the writing is so exceptional that it appeals to all ages."

Geoffrey Taylor, director of the International Festival of Authors in Toronto, said there are various levels of reading ability — and books aimed at teens could potentially appeal to those aged 10 to 50.

"Take a look at the Lemony Snicket series. Those were books that were written for children, but parents liked reading them because there was double entendre and everything else in the book. So they became enjoyable for parents to read to their kids."

► Author Geoffrey Taylor

But books don't have to be labelled "young adult" to be suitable for young readers. Teens will just skip over the parts they don't like in adult fiction, or read fast through certain sections, Taylor said.

"I can remember reading Great Expectations when I was younger, and then when Lloyd Jones' book Mister Pip came out a (few) years ago, which referenced Great Expectations, I reread Great Expectations and I found that as an adult reading, I got more out of it than I would have as a younger reader."

Forensic anthropologist Kathy Reichs is known for the TV show Bones and her crime novels featuring the character Temperance Brennan. She will be introducing her second novel Seizure in the young adult series Virals, which follows Brennan's teenage niece Tory, a science lover.

The books are co-written with her 33-year-old son Brendan, who came up with the idea, Reichs said in an interview from Ohio, where she was en route to a public appearance.

"Bones gets a lot of viewers in the young adult age range, and also a lot of young adults are reading the Temperance Brennan books. So we thought that young adults might like to read about young adults using science, so that was really where it all started from."

Her son Brendan is really good at young adults' dialogue, their social concerns and the technology that's popular with young adults, she said.

The plotting is equally as complicated as for the Temperance Brennan books, Reichs said, and the novels are heavily researched.

hour days and I travelled up to 9,000 kilometres a month visiting stores and stocking shelves at night."

Fisher says the key to any business is surrounding yourself with the right people.

His turning point came when he partnered with Jason Volk and the two pushed Chatters to the next level.

"I don't think you'll ever find one individual that takes a company over the top. You need to create a great team."

Stylish success

Fisher's keys to entrepreneurial success:

- Have a strong work ethic and passion.
- Everything grows and changes. If you sit still you'll get rolled over.
- Surround yourself with the right people.
- Anticipate what is coming around the corner then figure out what to do next.

As he looks at the company he created, Fisher is proud yet humbled by his success.

"Wow, 106 stores. Then I think there's potential for another 106 stores."

How's he going to accomplish his goals?

"You put your head down and go to work."

While they make for great cocktail conversation, some of the most prestigious careers aren't quite as enviable as they seem, according to a new report from job search portal CareerCast.com.

Green glass equals big biz

► A new biz idea designed to store glass bottles properly so they don't wind up in the garbage gets financial backing from Dragons' Den ► Called the Bottle Bin, the container holds dozens of wine, liquor and beer bottles

BEN KNIGHT
LIFE@METRONews.ca

Glass recycling is simple, right? You put your bottles in the bin, and set the bin out on the curb.

But did you know that if the glass breaks, and different colours of glass mingle, your bottles cannot be recycled — and millions end up in a landfill?

Sustain It Inc., a clever company from Aurora, Ont., just got a major investment on CBC Television's hit show Dragons' Den with a new bottle carrier specifically designed to solve this problem.

"It's called Bottle Bin," says Chris Williams, director of sales for Sustain It. "It's a reusable container for your wine, liquor and beer bottles. When the bin is full, it's an easy and convenient way to bring those empty containers back and collect your refund."

The bin holds 18 standard wine bottles, or 24 empty beer bottles. It's easy to carry, and guarantees that all your glass gets properly recycled.

"It was specifically made for wine bottles originally, and then when you do the sheer math of the volume of how much beer we drink in Canada, we changed the design to be able to accommodate beer

Bottle Bin touched off a bidding frenzy on Dragons' Den earlier this month, with all five Dragons making offers.

The bins will be available at Home Hardware stores across Canada in November, retailing for between $11 to $13. The Beer Store in Ontario is selling them now for $9.99.

THE GOOD, BAD AND UGLY OF SILICONE

Is silicone bakeware eco-friendly and safe? Rebecca, Calgary

QUEEN OF GREEN

LINDSAY COULTER
GREEN@METRONews.ca

It's hard to say if there's a dark side to these brightly coloured cookie sheets and spatulas.

You won't dig up a lot of safety information about silicone ... yet.

Health Canada says, "Silicone rubber does not react with food or beverages, or produce any hazardous fumes."

But Health Canada also stands by the rationale that the fact that lab rats exposed to perfluorooctanoic acid (PFOA) were likely to get cancer doesn't mean non-stick products necessarily cause cancer in humans.

Silicone is a synthetic rubber that contains bonded silicon and oxygen. It's a natural element that is abundant in sand and rock.

Silicone bakeware is known for its heat-resistant and rubber-like qualities, and is safe for the oven and freezer. It is touted as being stable or inert, not changing the flavour or releasing odours that might affect food quality.

Not only is it believed to have low toxicity and thermal stability, it's also easy to clean and is non-stick. One safety tip I repeatedly came across is to use food-grade silicone products at recommended temperatures — about 220 degrees C or 428 degrees F.

When it comes to eco-friendliness, silicone bakeware allows you to replace disposables like paper muffin tins and parchment paper.

I haven't heard of recycling depots that accept silicone products, but keep your eyes open because it doesn't biodegrade.

For now, silicone is a safer alternative to non-stick cookware treated with PFOA. I'm also a huge fan of cast iron and glass cookware and bakeware.

Falcons taking flight

► Matt Ryan runs and throws for TDs, as Atlanta hands Detroit second loss in a row

GREGORY SHAMUS/GETTY IMAGES

The Falcons might've found their groove in Motown.

Matt Ryan ran and threw for touchdowns to give Atlanta a double-digit lead in the first half, and the Falcons held on to win 23-16 in Detroit yesterday.

The defending NFC South champion-Falcons (4-3) won consecutive games for the first time this season because they finally played well in all three phases on the same day.

"Good teams go on streaks," Atlanta coach Mike Smith said. "You can't just keep yo-yoing up and down."

The Lions (5-2) have lost their lustre with two straight losses — both at home — after their perfect start. Their formerly fired-up fans have started to boo, moan and groan.

"We don't deserve their cheers if we're going to play like that," Lions guard Rob Sims said. "It's just that simple."

The Lions had a chance to get Ford Field back on their side.

But on Detroit's final drive, a pass-interference penalty against Atlanta was overturned because instant replay showed defensive tackle Corey Peters had slightly grazed the ball.

"I didn't see the tip, but the guys in the booth were in my ear about it right away," Smith said. "With less than two minutes, we had to rely on the officials, but they did a great job. They didn't let the Lions snap the ball, so the replay official could get a good look, and they made the right call."

Instead of having the ball at the Falcons 26, the Lions were backed up to the 41 and Matthew Stafford threw an incomplete pass on the next play to turn it over on downs and injured his right ankle, knee — or both.

"To tell the truth I can't really tell right now," Stafford said.

Other results from yesterday:

- Aaron Rodgers kept Green Bay unbeaten with three touchdowns and 335 yards passing, holding off the plucky Christian Ponder in the rookie's first start to defeat the Minnesota Vikings 33-27.
- Ben Roethlisberger threw 95 yards to Mike Wallace for the longest pass play in Steelers history and Pittsburgh went on to hand the Arizona Cardinals their fifth consecutive loss 32-20.
- The Kansas City Chiefs took advantage of rusty quarterback play from Kyle Boller and Carson Palmer to beat the Oakland Raiders 28-0.

All Blacks win World Cup

DAVID ROGERS/GETTY IMAGES

New Zealand survived an uncanny spate of flyhalf injuries and a searching test of character to close a huge gap in its rugby history, beating France 8-7 in a gripping Rugby World Cup final yesterday to become the third two-time champion.

The perennial favourites, New Zealand hadn't won the World Cup since hosting and winning the inaugural tournament in 1987.

"It's something we've dreamed of for a while," All Blacks coach Graham Henry said. "We can rest in peace."

The French had been written off after a disjointed tournament, but produced one of their finest World Cup performances.

"I feel immensely sad and immensely proud at the same time," France coach Marc Lievremon said.

All Blacks No. 10 Aaron Cruden left with a knee injury after 33 minutes, leaving New Zealand's hopes with the often vilified fly-half Stephen Donald.

He took over the goal-kicking in the second half and landed a penalty that gave New Zealand an 8-0 lead. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
